

Privacy Policy

JEDS consultants respects your privacy, whether you are a customer or simply visiting our website www.jedsconsultants.com.

- We are committed to protect your privacy through our compliance with this policy.
- This policy describes our practices in regard to information collected through our website or our services.
- It also applies to information that we receive or collect via e-mail interaction with you.
- However, it does not apply to information collected by any third party application that may be accessible from our website.
- Kindly read this policy carefully to understand our practices. The use of our services confirms that you agree by these policies. You can check it periodically for any updates/changes.

Definitions

- "Visitors" refers to Individuals that access and may interact with our website or those whom we may meet through referrals/third parties/ any other source. Personal contact information from these visitors will be subject to this policy. The contact information may be used to send promotional material as described further in this policy.
- "Customers" refers to Individuals/companies that are direct clients of JEDS consultants.

Information Collection and its use

Information provided to us by clients through our website or personal interaction is collected by us and saved in our Database. We may use this information for the following purpose:

- To promote and present our services via e-mail
- To provide information about our products or services as per customer/visitor request.
- To notify customers about any changes in services.
- To modify/upgrade our website for better visitor experience and display more interesting and relevant content as per user preference.
- For the purpose of Business such as analysis of data, developing new products, enhancing our services, analyzing the effect of our promotions or expanding our own business.

- To fulfill any other requirement requested by visitors/customer while giving information.

Information Disclosure

Aggregated information/information that does not identify any individual may be used without restrictions. However personal information that is collected by us or provided by customers/visitors is subject to this privacy policy and may be disclosed to:

- Our associates for the purposes described in the privacy policy.
- Our contractors or any service providers to provide and support our service.
- To third party in case of merger, acquisition etc.

This information may also be disclosed to fulfill the purpose for which it is provided such as

- Replying to visitor/customer requests
- Financial processing (credit card etc.)

Legal Disclosure

- JEDS consultants reserves the right to disclose your personal/contact information in case required by law or when it may be necessary to protect our own rights or to comply with a court order/legal notice/judicial process.

Data Security

Committed to protecting your personal information, we use reasonable measures including all technical, administrative and organizational steps to protect and store information within our organization.

Complaints

We are committed to your privacy. If you have any concerns regarding your Privacy or believe that the information given by you is inaccurate or find any disparity regarding use/disclosure of the information shared by you as per Privacy Policy, you can raise your concerns via mail on our e-mail id sales@jedsconsultants.com. We will take steps to address the same.

Changes in Privacy Policy

If any changes are made to this Privacy Policy, these will be disclosed on our website. Kindly view the contents frequently to stay updated. Your use of our services or those provided by our website www.jedsconsultants.com confirms your acceptance of the Privacy Policy.